

FRENCH ARE OPPOSED TO PEACE PLAN

CONDITIONS OUTLINED BY AUSTRIA TO RUSSIA ARE NOT ACCEPTABLE TO FRENCH WAR DEPARTMENT.

PLAN TO CONTINUE WAR

Conference in Paris Resulted in Program Being Outlined for the Allies to Continue the War.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Dec. 28.—France will not accept a peace based on conditions outlined by Austria, Foreign Minister Pichon declared today in the chamber of deputies. He said that the peace terms of the Austrian government were endeavoring to involve its negotiations with the Bolsheviks, but that the war would go on whether or not Russia makes a separate peace.

The foreign minister said Germany was seeking to protract the negotiations with the Russians, re-establishing commercial relations, in the mean time believing that in this way the Bolsheviks might be check-mated later.

Peace is indirect. Referring to the terms which the central powers offer to the Russians as published today, he said: "Germany is trying to make a play in her Maximilian negotiations. After suffering as we have we cannot accept agreement with our allies we are ready to discuss propositions regarding peace, but this is indirect. Russia can treat for a separate peace with one enemy, but in either case the war for us will continue. An ally has failed us, an ally who in preceding years carried off great victories. It is a great success for our enemy. The other end of the world a democracy has risen against Germany's appetite for conquest."

Draw Up Program. "At the conference in Paris a program was drawn up and in consequence unity of action on the part of the allies will make itself felt even in Macedonia. Germany's defeat is inevitable. The impossible task of conquering the world. The world will conquer them."

"In that war France will have played a great role, for, as Roosevelt said, she will have saved humanity."

Pretend Indignation. M. Pichon declared that the secret treaty published by the Bolsheviks had not compromised France. He said the German diplomats who were pretending to show indignation were the very men who sought to negotiate a secret treaty with the old regime of Russia, who attempted the United States into war against the United States, and organized chaos in Argentina.

World Question. After referring to the German declaration that Alsace and Lorraine would never be surrendered, M. Pichon said: "The question of Alsace-Lorraine does not affect France alone. It is a world question. It is not a territorial problem, but a moral problem. It is a solution of the world's peace. It is a statement that should have a durable peace."

The occupation of Jerusalem. M. Pichon said, was a victory for the civil world. He added the city would be given an international status.

English Views. A statement purporting to give in brief the views of the German peace terms, is printed by the Daily Express. It says two things are known here. First, that Germany will not grant a separate peace with Russia. Second, Germany fears Bolshevik influence, being afraid of its effect on the German working classes.

A stiff upper lip is the attitude in this country at present, the statement declares. "The peace terms are not sufficient to lead us to lay down our arms. We must be watchful. It is up to Germany to show that she is sincere."

Hungarian Position. Zurich, Switzerland, Dec. 28.—Count Julius Andrássy, ex-premier of Hungary, writing on the peace question, says: "From the moment we were free in the east the whole situation fundamentally changed and the central powers now also will gain supremacy in the west. It is no longer possible for America to give us the finishing stroke. She must save the entente."

MEXICAN GANG HAS BEEN WIPED OUT BY THE U. S. SOLDIERS

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Marfa, Tex., Dec. 28.—With nearly a score of their number killed and those remaining wounded or scattered like quail, El Paso today reported the bandits that had been active in the border since Christmas day, killed three, today is believed to have been entirely broken up by United States troops.

Detachments of United States cavalry that crossed into Mexico in pursuit of the bandits have returned and have made a complete report to Colonel B. B. Lusk, commanding the American troops in the Big Bend district.

Department of Justice agents sent out from El Paso today began an investigation of reports that the raids on the Britte and Fitzgerald ranches were instigated by German subjects in Mexico. It is also reported that American draft evaders in Mexico were active in planning the raid and this phase of the matter is being probed.

Although the United States troops that pursued the bandits invaded a rough and dangerous country, only one of the American soldiers was wounded. Private John Kelly was shot in the leg. Reports that one trooper was killed were not confirmed by the official report made to Colonel Lusk.

Many horses and some of the loot taken from the Britte ranch and the store at Candelaria were recovered by the troops after they had been abandoned by the fleeing bandits.

Estimates of the number of bandits killed vary from eighteen to thirty-five. The report of Captain Fiske tells of the killing of ten, but it is believed many others wounded have since died.

It is declared they have set a cunning trap in which they hope, although vainly, to catch the allies.

The former view is not confined to papers generally regarded as having pacifist leanings. It is supported strongly, for instance, by the London Daily Express, which stands uncompromisingly for victory over the Central Powers as regarded as being addressed less to Russia than to the allies collectively and the other side through Count Czernin is assumed to have an initial purpose are prepared to modify in the course which the central powers probably of bargaining.

COMMITTEE SECURES MORE INFORMATION

Washington, Dec. 28.—More information on equipment, ordnance, clothing and other supplies of the German army, which stands at the national guardmen tonight reached the town in which they are to be billeted temporarily after marching for two days through the storm. Notwithstanding the severe weather, their experience seems to have done them more good than harm for the men are rapidly becoming hardened. Former guardsmen of another division carried on their work in spite of the storm, engaging in bayonet, grenade and automatic rifle practice without interruption.

Enjoy Weather. Some of the men had their new caps pulled down over their ears and all who had mufflers wound them around their necks. These troops are mostly in the lowlands; others in higher altitudes were unable to proceed with their work as well as was desired.

Troops from the southern states have been quite uncomfortable in the last few days, but they are becoming accustomed to the cold and snow.

HUN ARMEN DROP BOMBS ON U. S. MEN

MOONLIGHT RAID BY GERMAN AVIATORS RESULTS IN TWO DEATHS IN AMERICAN CAMP.

NEW DIVISION LANDED

Snow Interferes With Training of Americans in Camps—One American Engineer Killed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Dec. 28.—Under orders received from the general head divisional command of the American forces, all German leave of absence for officers and men was today suspended, temporarily. No explanation was given.

German Air Raid. During a moonlight night German aviators dropped bombs near a certain town and two American privates were killed. The German aviators were killed and dropped their bombs accurately.

Christmas Present. A corporal of the American engineers was killed and one private wounded Christmas eve when a German shell dropped near a party of American engineers working in the trenches on a section of the French front. The engineers for several weeks had been working along the front with veteran French engineers for the purpose of instruction.

Much Snow. For three or four days there has been falling intermittently through the American zone interfering with the training of troops and communication, and many roads are becoming almost impassable on account of drifts. No serious difficulty has been experienced thus far in supplying the troops in the outlying towns and districts, but it is feared the supply problem will give trouble if the storm continues.

Motor trucks today were crawling over the hilly roads at a snail's pace. Numerous accidents were reported, and the weather was so bad that many cars were frozen and could not be moved.

New Division Landed. The troops of a newly landed division composed of former national guardsmen tonight reached the town in which they are to be billeted temporarily after marching for two days through the storm. Notwithstanding the severe weather, their experience seems to have done them more good than harm for the men are rapidly becoming hardened. AMERICAN BANK IN PETROGRAD TAKEN BY AUTHORITIES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Petrograd, Dec. 28.—Soldiers acting under the order of Finance Commissioner Menshinsky, today surrounded and seized all private banks in Petrograd, including the branch of the National City Bank of New York. The manager, B. R. Stevens, was arrested and detained for a short time. Many bank directors were arrested. Several of the American banks in the city vault, but Stevens refused. J. E. Wright, counsellor of the American embassy, called upon Mr. Stevens during the afternoon.

In explaining the seizure of the banks Mr. Menshinsky said: "We let it be known long ago that private banks should send reports weekly to the state banks, revise for activity and then send that they resume business. The keys are in the hands of Commissioner Obolensky of the state bank as are the books and documents which have been seized."

It is reported a special committee will investigate the closed banks, spending a week in the process, and the institutions will be permitted to resume business in the meantime. The city is facing a serious financial shortage, especially of currency in small denominations, which has not been available for several days.

The National City Bank of New York was granted a license last January to commence business in Russia, with particular reference to the financing of railroad construction. The license was the first granted to a foreign bank to do business in Russia since 1878.

Repulsed in their attempt to break the French line northeast of Verdun, the Germans have ceased their efforts. In the Argonne yesterday the French checked a German surprise attack and French artillery broke up enemy troops' concentration north of Verdun. On the British front artillery engagements continued at various points.

On the Italian northern front the Austro-Germans have not followed up their success of early in the week west of Brenta, and which they had a hard fight to maintain. Enemy artillery fire on the Osego plateau is incessant. In aerial battles over Treviso, British and Italian airmen accounted for eleven of thirty-three attacking enemy machines, themselves emerging unscathed.

Americans on List. London, Dec. 28.—Field Marshal Haig, the British commander-in-chief, has submitted the list of names of persons serving on the western front in the British army. The list, which was published today in the London Gazette, contained the names of many Americans attached to the American army nursing corps.

There is nothing of special interest to report, says today's communication from the war office.

German Report. Berlin, Dec. 28.—Throughout the day there was increased artillery firing on the Osego plateau and Tomba ridge in northern Italy, says today's official report from the Italian front.

The non-effective rate of the entire national guards for the week, says the report, was 47.8 per cent against 48.6 for the preceding week. The admission rate for disease was 31.1 per thousand against 32.6; the non-effective rate for the national army was 41.8 per thousand, against 40.4; the admission rate for disease was 34.3 against 34.7.

INVESTIGATE FACTS OF THE EXPLOSION IN ROCKFORD HOME

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 28.—Discovery of a stick of dynamite in a car of coal billed to the Rockford hospital from an Indiana mine, following an explosion believed to have been caused by dynamite that partly wrecked the home of William A. Ogden, is made the subject of a sweeping investigation by federal authorities today. Existence of a plot to destroy this city, which is adjacent to Camp Grant, is feared.

Warnings have been sent to all householders to scan carefully all coal used and tracers have been sent out in an effort to learn the source of the dynamite found in coal shipments received here.

The explosion in the Ogden home occurred while the family was away on a holiday visit. A neighbor seeking to warm the house for the family return, started the furnace, and a few minutes later an explosion that wrecked the house and damaged buildings adjoining occurred. Fire authorities declare that only dynamite or cordite could have caused the explosion.

Ogden is in no way connected with Camp Grant or with any military enterprise. This fact, coupled with the discovery of dynamite in coal consigned to the Rockford hospital, leads the authorities to believe that wide spread destruction throughout the city and perhaps among soldiers at Camp Grant was the object of those who planted the dynamite in the coal shipments.

At the conclusion today of a conference with railroad heads, Mr. McAdoo announced that he had called on the members of the railroad war board to work out a general plan of operation. It is indicated the war board will continue as the operating body in charge of the country's roads. It will be assisted by its numerous committees throughout the country, including the operating committee of eastern railroads headed by A. W. Thompson of the Baltimore and Ohio.

Director General McAdoo will issue no orders for direction for the immediate present, but will await recommendations from the war board, taking any measures to clear the congestion choking railroad terminals and tracks in the east.

"Whatever can be done to make the roads more efficient, said Mr. McAdoo, will be done as soon as we find out what is necessary."

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Immediate curtailment of luxurious passenger service equipment was among the first steps taken today by some railroads with headquarters in Chicago, when the government called for control of the national rail system.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul announced that it would eliminate both observation and buffet smoking cars from its trains. The change will be made between Chicago, Milwaukee and Minneapolis at once, and on the line to Kansas City and Omaha the change will be made at the same time. Officials said the discontinuance of this equipment will result in considerable saving of fuel.

Only a Few Solicitors at Work Today—Plan Final Drive Tomorrow to Send Total Well Over 3,000 Mark.

Only 2,400 memberships in the Red Cross have been disposed of in the present campaign in the city, according to totals obtained at noon today. 2,319 of this number were annual memberships, 77 were subscribing, 3 were contributing, and 1 was sustaining. If this city's quota of 3,000 is reached, it will be necessary for subscriptions to come in much faster than they have been the past three days. Yesterday many solicitors who had not reported to headquarters since the beginning of the drive, turned in their

OBITUARY.

Mrs. A. L. Currey, word was received this morning that Mrs. A. L. Currey, of 930 Montrose avenue, Chicago, passed away at her home last night. The cause of her untimely death was not given in the dispatch. Mrs. Currey with her family made this city her home for a short time several years ago and has a host of friends here who will deeply regret her loss. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Madeline, and a son who lives in the west, and by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Kimberley of this city.

Mine Echoes Voice 16 Times.

There are many salt mines in Transylvania. The ones in Marosujvar produce, says the National Geographic Magazine, a hundred million pounds of salt a year. In the one at Torvis there is a gallery known as the Joseph gallery, where one may hear his voice echoed and re-echoed 16 times.

Knights and Ladies of the Holy Grail

Mrs. H. H. Lindorff.

We are living in an age when opportunity knocks often at our doors. At no time in history have we been so often asked to do our bit and we have all been very generous than perhaps we have thought we have been. For have we not been good to ourselves when we were good to someone else? Our happiness in anticipating the pleasure of another when we have done for him, is only increased when he shows us how really happy he has been made. Every man who gives gives to himself to the sweetening and broadening of his own nature. How often have we met him in our daily walks. He is always happy, always has a smile, always has time for you or for me, always has a warm hand clasp and a merry eye and everybody is his friend, although he is not a millionaire—perhaps even a bit shabby or careless of appearance. When we want advice, when we really need a lift, he is our first thought, for he is generous. He never fails anybody, because he never denies any impulse to do a little bit, or at least to help a little bit. He never lets his impulse muscle grow weak from non-use, as poor Scrooge of Dickens' novel did for so long. And if he has never failed anybody, the children of our children still do him honor, all because he made the most of his opportunity to live. This year we have had many of his opportunities, from our friends to our boys in camp, to their families, and to the stricken peoples abroad, and we have been glad America was looked upon as the lifesaver. We have had a pride in being Americans, with a purse and a generous heart, and a willing hand. Others have not been so fortunate. Just now there are lands so barren, that not a sign of life exists, not a drop of water, not a sound for shelter, not a root, not a tree—nothing at all remains. And in this awful vastness and desolation, little children huddle in groups, hungry, starved, waiting only for some body, or something to come, that their misery may be lessened. They are the children of a hunted Christian nation, as true and loving and tender of heart as even ours, and we must not be slow in our generosity. While we wait they die, and our own souls contract and narrow putting off our good intentions. This is our opportunity, and it passes this way but once. So let us be kind. It will cost you but ten cents, three dollars, or five dollars, or anything, more or less, and it will bring you much happiness. Let us know you belong to the Knights and Ladies of the Holy Grail—for it is they who are helping in this time of opportunity. Not a cent will go for expenses, every dollar taken for the relief of the committee are donations, and our president assures us they are doing this work very purely and soberly, through Cleveland, D. D., treasurer of the American and Syrian relief. This relief is as certain as is the Red Cross. They work side by side.

Although the Christmas is past it is never too late to do a kind and generous thing, so let us not wait until opportunity has passed to the generous door of our neighbors and we lose the chance of being good to ourselves and someone else.

COUNTY MIGHT LOSE $6,550 IF NO ACTION IS TAKEN QUICKLY

Failure to Pass Provision for County's Share of New Trunk Line May Cause Complications.

Unless the Rock county board of supervisors at their January meeting make some provision to meet the required assessment for the proposed trunk line highway, the county may be out some $6,550 which would otherwise be assessed against the city and town of Beloit. Evidently through some oversight, the matter was not acted upon at last session and the following letter from A. R. Hirs, state highway engineer, shows the exact position the county is placed in at the present time.

It was very much surprised to hear that the Rock county board adjourned without taking any action whatever toward providing the county funds required to pay the county's share of the cost of state aid construction.

Rock county is one of three counties which failed to provide the county's share of federal aid construction allotted to it for next year, the other two counties being Jefferson and Lafayette, in both of which the improvements were located so as to be of state-wide interest but of little local interest.

In regard to the money available for Rock county from the state and nation under the federal aid law, will not be lost by the action of the county board inasmuch as the law provides that if a county fails to make the necessary levy the secretary of state shall levy the required amount against the county and collect it in the next tax collection as other state taxes are levied and collected, so that in lack of any action by the county board to provide the money for the improvement between Janesville and Beloit, the improvement will be made in any event but made in 1919 instead of 1918 as contemplated.

One had effect of the failure of the county taking action is that very probably no charge can be made against the county and cities in which the federal aid improvement lies when the tax against the county is imposed by the state, so that the county will be debared from getting a part of the cost out of directly benefited units. This has not been legally established, but we believe from an inspection of the law that there is no recovery from a town when the county's share of the cost is levied by state action.

In regard to the failure to provide the required tax under the old state aid law, Rock county is entitled to receive from the state $21,533.74 for work in 1918.

Unless the county board takes the steps necessary to provide the county's share of the cost on or before July 1st, 1919, this amount is lost to Rock county and is added to the state aid available for the succeeding year and distributed to all counties on the basis of valuation.

It will therefore be noted that while the failure to provide the federal aid fund has no financial effect on the state county, the failure to provide the state aid fund involves a very heavy financial loss.

Rock county has always been one of the leading good roads counties in Wisconsin and we are correspondingly more surprised at the recent action, or lack of action, by the county board. As far as we know it is the first case wherein a county board has failed to provide the county's share of the cost of state aid road and bridge construction.

We trust that it may be possible at the January session to arrange some means whereby these matters may be adjusted. We would recommend a bond issue sufficient to pay the county's share of the cost of the proposed federal aid and state aid construction, the bonds, say to be issued for one year, or the money borrowed payable in the spring of 1919, it would mean a heavy tax at that time inasmuch as the construction for both 1918 and 1919 would be financed by the same tax levy.

We do not wish to interfere with the internal affairs of the county, but these suggestions are made with the hope that they will be helpful, and if we can be helpful by talking the matter over either with the road and bridge committee or with the whole county board, he will be glad to do what we can.

GIVES REASONS FOR ASKING INCREASE IN PRESENT GAS RATES

Superintendent I. F. Wortendyke of New Gas Light Company Gives Facts and Figures.

In a plain statement of facts why the New Gas Light company of this city is asking the state railroad commission for permission to increase their rates fifteen per cent, I. F. Wortendyke, superintendent of the company, said today that it was chiefly due to the increase in price of coke and oil; that where he had been paying $6.30 per ton for coke in 1916, he was now paying $13.25 for the same grade of coke, a difference of $7.45 per ton, an increase of 118 per cent. He estimates that in 1918 he will use between 1,500 and 1,600 tons of coke, making an increase for this item alone about $12,000.

"In 1916 we paid about four cents per gallon for oil, where at the present time we are paying 7½ cents, an increase better than 80 per cent per gallon. We estimate that we will have to use during the year 1918 between 350,000 and 400,000 gallons of oil, the increased cost of which would amount to about $25,000. The increase in the price of gas that the company is asking is only 15 per cent, which would amount to about $14,000 or $15,000 per year.

"The company hopes that the present high prices of materials may be temporary. They are not asking the people to bear the entire additional cost, but are seeking for an increase which will leave the company with a loss of about $10,000 per year."

Mr. Wortendyke further stated that it was with extreme reluctance that the company made an application for an increase in its rates, but that he hopes the consumers, in view of the increase in costs as explained above, would appreciate the absolute necessity of the step taken.

TWO BOXING TITLES HAVE CHANGED HANDS

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
New York, Dec. 28.—Boxing passed a momentous day in its long history in the year just past.
Kicked from its place of favor in New York state, it did, however, manage to struggle through a year of persecution with some surprising favor.
Two titles of some legitimate proportions changed hands during the year. Two other titles of less significance were turned over.
Less Williams' inactivity hurt the game to a certain extent, but there are indications that the big fellow may be forced out of retirement for a fling at the ring game some time in the spring.
The Frawley boxing law, legalizing ten round bouts in New York state, passed out of existence on Nov. 15, with hardly a flicker. Mike O'Dowd's loss of his title by knocking out one of the most ineffectual and unpopular champions who ever has pretended to the middleweight crown at McCoy. In the same year another unpopular champion was laid low when Benny Leonard, native New Yorker, dropped Freddie Welsh early in the spring.
Leonard has sprung into public estimation as the best lightweight since the days of Joe Gans—perhaps the best lightweight who has ever held the crown. His constant activity and his willingness to take on anyone who pretends to be a likely contender for the title, are serving to make him more popular day by day.
O'Dowd has had little chance to exercise himself since he took over the duties of keeping a pugilistic crown shining. He has plenty of opposition in his field, notably in Harry Greb and Mike Gibbons. It is probable Gibbons would have little trouble in polishing off the present title holder, but it is doubtful if there is a chance of such a match being engineered. Mike is not willing to battle the youth he taught to box.

The outlook for boxing is much more encouraging than when the United States entered the war. The asperity with which soldiers have taken up the game, and the response of boxers to a call for boxing instructors have had their effect.
Boxing is, however, in a bad state, even with a rose in the outlook. Unless Leonard grows into a really easy marksman, he is likely to prevail for some time.

MORRIS MILLER

It is rather a strange thing that Georges Carpentier, once held to be something of a quitter in the ring, should have distinguished himself above all other pugilists in bravery and devotion to duty as a soldier. When Carpentier first took up boxing he had a way of "resigning" whenever the going became too hot for his liking.

His actions in his bout with Gunboat Smith, when he was badly injured by a blow that merely glanced off the top of his head, did not add anything to his reputation for gameness. But as a soldier Carpentier has made a record that will live. He has won the Cross of War for conspicuous bravery in fighting over the enemy trenches at low height, and is famous for his daring.

Sunday baseball may be played in Boston next spring if a movement under way at the Boston Navy Yard receives the endorsement of Gov. Samuel W. McCall. All games will be played for the benefit of the sailors' fund, and it is probable that permission will be granted. These Sunday games may be played at either Braves field or Fenway park. With many crack major league players enrolled, including Jack Barry and Rabbit Maravalle, and a host of others, the quality of the game should be almost on a par with that furnished during the major league season. The players are available to play when the good old spring rolls around.

"I never offered to trade Zach Wheat to the Phillies for Wheat," said Cobb, Ebbets recently. "What is needed by the Brooklyn club. Furthermore, I wish to say that I have refused to sell any of the Brooklyn players to any other club. Why? Because we can't make thousand dollar bills play the various positions on the team. If we can make a trade that will help the Brooklyn, well and good. If it is our desire to build up a winner at Ebbets field, and if some other club has a good player to sell we may find a way to buy. By the way, Marquard will not be permitted to get away."

Big Ed Reubach is said to have retired. He shortened his career by taking too deep an interest in the Players' Fraternity.
Gibbons is now boxing instructor at Camp Dodge. O'Dowd, caught by the draft, is soon to report as a private at Camp Dodge. Mike O'Dowd, Red and white, and Minnesota ring has already been wondering with what grace O'Dowd will take orders from Gibbons.

Casey Stengel led the National League outfielders in the matter of base hits this year, having thirty to his credit.
The Yankees do not secure Derrell Dean. Miller Huggins will have a fine "young second baseman in Fewster" of the Baltimore.

Cactus Cravath had hopes of being released this winter so that he might join some club in the Pacific Coast league, but his chances appear slim. Par Moran will need every player who is likely to furnish any aid.

Sales of the Friendly Forest

Well, the big, kind American Eagle, as I was saying in the last story, flew away with Billy Bunny, and Daddy Fox, Old Man Weasel and Robber Night Hawk were as angry as they could be. Billy and his Eagle said: "There comes Mr. Happy Sun up the sky. I didn't know morning was so near. I'm afraid I can't carry you all the way home for I haven't time. And just as he was going to turn away the Eagle's back and his feathers were very soft, so that Billy Bunny hated to get off. Besides, he was quite sleepy.
"Well, good-by," said the Eagle, and flew away. But, of course, the little rabbit thanked him before he went.
Then Billy Bunny rubbed his eyes with his left hand and winked his ears and twinkled his nose. Then he felt lots better, and off he hopped: By and by he came to a wide river. So he looked around to find a way to cross over, for there wasn't any bridge. And just as he was going to turn away a little ferryboat came up to the bank. "Want to cross?" asked the ferryman, who was a weatherbeaten Billy Goat with a long beard.
"What do you charge?" asked the little rabbit.
"Oh, I don't know," replied the Billy Goat. "You see, every one has a different kind of money, so I take what is given me."
At last Billy Bunny found a carrot

AS USUAL

No one would have strenuously objected to President Wilson, or any other person in authority, taking over the railroads, least of all the railroads themselves, if some man with experience in handling transportation and railroad properties had been made "railroad dictator." It is politics, however, that has been predominant in the whole manipulation by the president of the railroads as the chief of this important feature of the federal government.

Much good can come from this governmental control of the railroads if properly used. There will be less looting of unfortunate systems, by a systematic coterie of capitalists and the defrauding of small stockholders of their savings. There will be no fear of the actions of railroad property to the detriment of stock and bonds owned by the common people. There is another chance that labor will find it harder to enforce their demands for increased wages without some sufficient grounds and the threat of a strike will be null and void.

This last is perhaps worth the other two efforts when you come to consider it. Given a material increase in the wage of the last federal election, the trainmen now seek another raise. The federal government is in a position to say, "Let them dare to strike and see what happens." Will they? That is the question that troubles the man whose interests lie not in railway earnings, but in transportation of food, medicine and fuel, and supplies to keep the factories running to meet the demands made upon them.

With two hundred and sixty thousand miles of railroad at their disposal what will the government do with them? Will they seek to place clerks in charge of various branches and service, as the Chicago and North Western, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, the Erie, the Pennsylvania, the Ohio, the Union Pacific, the Northern Pacific, in fact every line of railroad service in the United States to take the place of the high salaried officials who now control the destinies of these roads?

Or will they call these heads of the great railway systems of the United States into conference and decide on a method of procedure and then follow it out, each road handling the traffic given it and pooling the general results with no detriment to the stockholders and the bondholders? At present it looks like politics pure and simple. Time may tell a different story and we must wait results.

LESE MAJESTY.

We are in the same position as Patrick Henry, who declaimed in the House of Burgesses of the Virginian colony, previous to the revolution: "If this be treason let them make the most of it." It would appear as though we were placing too much absolute domination of public affairs in the hands of one man when we confer upon the president of the United States the absolute mastery that enables him to take over railroads or any public utility for war purposes without sanction of congress.

Of course the public realize that his cabinet is simply an assemblage of "rubber stamps," who answer to the call of the president's demands, and that the majority of congress waits upon his whisper to enact laws, but why not discuss matters more fully before taking revolutionary steps?

Why not cut the red tape of the war department and arm and equip the men who have been called into service before taking new obligations that will become more burdensome? Why not send a few more hundred thousand men to the other side to aid in this war and win for the future of the United States and the world at large the desired results, rather than hold long, drawn-out hearings in congress on procedure, with endless debates to follow?

What we want is action now, and if President Wilson would forget he was a politician who was elected the last time "because he kept us out of war," he would place in his cabinet men, regardless of politics, who would be able to cut that red tape and give us the money for our money to say the least.

Baker has shown his inefficiency, as have several others of his personal cabinet, and we all know, the world knows, that Wilson, not Lansing, pens the state papers. If this government is to be run by clerks let us have competent ones at least. If rubber stamps are all that is necessary, at least get a good quality of rubber so the impression will be clear and defined.

HOME WORK.

We hear too much of the need for work in the various war fronts and army cantonments to realize that right here at home we are building up the men and women of the next generation. Training boys who may be called into active war service before this great struggle is over and women who will need all the old possibilities to meet the emergencies that may arise in the days to come. This is home work. We contribute to the Liberty bonds, for the prosecution of the world's war. We furnish money for the Army "Y" huts and the Knights of Columbus' chapel and reading rooms. Money is contributed for the Y. W. C. A. to care for girls in the army zone and those taking the places of men in the local field of activities, and also to the Red Cross for general relief service the world over. We are proud and happy we can do and the demands thus far are just a start on the future drudges that will be made on the private exchequers of individuals.

However, we must not forget this work right here at home. In our stress to do good for humanity in general we may forget the home needs. There are many who have been left behind in this rush of war. Many who have sent their sons and their brothers to fight at the front, and still have a younger generation left who seek to prepare themselves for the struggle that is bound to come. These boys, of the high school age, are organized in Janesville into a battalion—two companies—and seek uniforms. They have tried various means to raise funds for the same, and tonight offer to the public a dance at the armory to aid in this cause.

They are not beggars. They represent the younger generation of citizens who seek recognition. The Sixteenth Separate company of the Wisconsin State Guard has furnished them a place to drill, drill instructors to drill with, and now the boys step before the public and ask their support to purchase uniforms to drill in.

The shortage of rifles in the United States precludes the possibility of their securing arms for their own use but it is right and just they should be uniformed and it is to be hoped that the public will look upon this matter in the right light, and if they will send a donation to the companies or come to the armory tonight and watch the men of tomorrow drill before the dance and see the interest they show and how well they accomplish the maneuvers.

These boys are with us today and gone tomorrow. While they are here let us help them to realize into men as quickly as possible. Not too quickly, but give them your moral encouragement by dollars and cents donation.

Well, maybe the culture of the Germany of yesterday may impress some people, but the Germany of today fails to show any signs of the advance beyond the stage of the savage people that Caesar encountered centuries ago. When it comes to cutting the throat of a prisoner in an American trench after he had surrendered, even the savage tribes of North America refrained from such practices. Yet some people will not yet fully understand we are at war with a foe that knows no mercy, yet expects the world to worship at their shrine. Tear the masks off of these foreigners at home who profess patriotism, and see what you will find beneath? Then act.

Perhaps if the officials looked to it they would find that many of the men in uniform of Uncle Sam who come to Janesville on leave, do not obtain their liquor within the corporate limits, but just outside, and from friends who are mislabeled "Samaritans" and have a "bottle stowed away for emergencies." A few examples would do away with this traffic and clear the name of the city of all the black marks that are being accumulated against it by the officers down at Camp Grant.

Now is the time to think up those New Year resolutions and be prepared to see they are lived up to. It is easy enough to make all sorts of resolutions, but the next thing is to keep them. However, let's make them and try and keep them this next year at least. One of the first is, "Speak no evil of any man," then follow with the rest of the usual list.

The men who are subject to the next draft might receive a bit of preliminary training if they attended the drills of the Sixteenth Separate company each Monday evening. Drill masters will be furnished them and they will have the opportunity of having preliminary military instruction before actually going into the service.

Congress has not convened for its session yet, but when they do they will find a lot of business to handle. Meanwhile it is to be hoped that the investigation of the various departments of war activity will have reached a conclusion.

One attorney in the city offers five dollars for the first drafted man from a farm who does not claim exemption. It will be interesting to learn who wins the "five."

SOME JOY LEFT IN LIFE. (Chicago health commissioner has just issued the ultimatum that kissing is O.K. and should be encouraged.) And the doctors scientific. With their whiskers most terrific. And their long hair most larded. See their theory discarded. They have been repudiated. For authority has stated in a manner most emphatic: "That the laddies and the misses can indulge in all the kisses. That their inclinations call for. That a right they would risk all for. No war portions, but full measure. 'Tis the only untaxed pleasure. Lid is off. Gosh, how we dread it. But it's right—the Boss has said it. And throughout our land the kissing sounds like locomotives hissing. And at last we've saved the nation. Made it safe for osculation.

THE FINISH. If Bill gets mixed up with the red Bolshevik. We mean Bill the Kaiser, the chump autocrat. And we're against their conspiracies tricky. We couldn't wish him any worse luck than that.

Buying Russia from the Bolshevik is like buying a diamond ring from a yeggman. Possession will be good only till the police get the job. Making idleness a crime, as is proposed, is a right they would risk all for. No war portions, but full measure. 'Tis the only untaxed pleasure. Lid is off. Gosh, how we dread it. But it's right—the Boss has said it. And throughout our land the kissing sounds like locomotives hissing. And at last we've saved the nation. Made it safe for osculation.

Regarding the situation in England, France and Italy, Col. House, our representative, says nothing, and says it very well, too.

THE THEATRICAL WEBSTER. Musical Director: Gentleman who stands with his back to the audience for the purpose of obstructing the view from forty of the best 250 seats. Author: Man who lives on the royalties he expects to get.

Composer: Man with a good memory and an artist in camouflage of music who can make a "Florodora" tune sound almost original.

Vocalist: Woman who sings whether you want her to or not. A singer is one who sings only for money.

Grand Opera: A tragedy with music. The music is on the stage, the tragedy out at the box office.

Critic: One who is always right—fifty per cent of the time.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest.

THE TRAVELER. Let me be a comrade gay, Traveling along life's way; Not too wise and not too strong; Not too proud to join the throng; Not too vain to sympathize With the commonest of sighs. But a traveler, finding all Worth his notice, big or small; Greeting in a friendly way, All he meets from day to day.

Let me be a boy to boys, Let me share their merry joys; If they're playing, let me be, I would take my turn at bat And remember in the joy What it means to be a boy. Dusty, tired and poor to see, Cheerful helpful would be, Glad with every man to speak, Be he strong or be he weak.

Whistling I would trudge along, Changing now and then to song; Never in such haste or need To begrudge a kindly deed; Never with my head so high That I'd miss to sympathize Someone stranded on the way. I might help if I would stay, Life's long trill, from start to end, I would journey as a friend.

Little do I care for fame Or the pomp of life's grim game, Rather would I keep my smile, Flitting ever through the world; Counting not myself above One in need of help or love; Stopping here and there to cheer One that is in trouble dear; Let me be in life's way plan, Just a human sort of man.

CALAMINE STOCKMEN ENTER GUILTY PLEA

Pay Fines of $25 and Depart Merrily On Their Way to Chicago to Dispose of Stock.

A few hours of pensive idleness in the county jail proved to be sufficient for Frank and Joe Dolan, with the result that they decided to plead guilty to the charge of drunkenness in municipal court. The two men were participants in a fistie combat on Wednesday evening at the C. M. & St. railroad yards and were arranged before Judge Harfield yesterday morning and entered a plea of not guilty. After thinking over the evidence against them seriously, they decided that they would follow the advice of the judge and be given their sentence. Late Thursday afternoon they asked that they be allowed to plead guilty to the charges. They were given the privilege and each was given a twenty-five dollar fine for their actions. Immediately after the fine was paid they took the first train for Chicago to dispose of their stock which was in Chicago waiting for them. It was at first thought that the railroad would prefer charges against them for the injuries inflicted on the brakeman and conductor of the freight train at the time they were arrested. George Edwards was the only offender in court this morning to answer a charge of drunkenness. He admitted that he had been drunk for a week and that his wife had telephoned for the police to come and get him. He was fined $15 and costs or the opportunity of spending twenty days at the county jail.

BELOIT WILL RAISE LARGE SERVICE FLAG

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Beloit, Dec. 28.—Beloit is to raise a monstrous service flag in honor of the men from this city who have entered the service since the declaration of war. The flag will have a capacity of 2,000 stars and whenever a man enlists in any branch of the service another star will be added to the huge white field. The flag is to be completed in about ten days and will then be raised with due ceremony.

ONE-THIRD OF MEN PLACED IN CLASS 1

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY REGISTRANTS CLASSIFIED YESTERDAY, FIFTY OF WHOM WERE PLACED IN FIRST CLASS.

BOARD IS NOT LENIENT

Those Who Have Claimed Deferred Classification on Insufficient Grounds are Held Subject to Military Service.

Approximately one-third of the registrants who have so far been classified by the exemption board are listed in the first class. The remainder have been given deferred classification and will not be called until those in the first class have all been taken or dismissed. The majority of those who have been placed in Class IV on the ground of having a wife or children dependent on them for support, while a few were placed in the last class on account of total physical disability. Only a small number of men were assigned to the second and third classes, those who are considered necessary to the prosecution of business or agricultural enterprises.

In the neighborhood of one hundred and fifty men were classified by the board yesterday and the work was continued today. The board is rapidly becoming familiar with the work and is proceeding rapidly. The questionnaires are examined in the order in which they were sent out and at the close of each day, notification cards are sent to the registrants indicating them in what class they have been placed.

An order issued yesterday by Provost Marshal Crowder provided that the remaining thirty-five per cent of registrants in this district who have been held subject to call to Camp Grant, will be classified. This is a change in the original order as it had been planned to take these men regardless of the classification. The usual number of questionnaires were made out last evening and the court house and the work will be taken up again tonight. Roger Cunningham Jesse Earle, F. C. Grant, C. H. Lange and M. P. Richardson are scheduled to appear this evening. Chairman of the Advisory Board M. O. Mount wishes to call the attention of both registrants and lawyers to the following instructions: Series I should be answered and it is particularly important that full details as to the occupation and industrial experience of the registrant be given. The section 14 of the Regulations the government may call upon persons who have technical skill in certain lines for immediate service. For instance, the government has just sent out a call for one thousand bricklayers of which Wisconsin's quota is fifty. In order that the local boards may have the information as to a change in the original order as it is extremely important that Questions 3 and 10 of Series I should be very carefully answered.

Under Series VII the regulations have been modified so that the two lines in black face type under Question 2 should be disregarded. If the answer to Question 1 is "no" all of the questions under Series I should be answered. A person is an alien unless he has completed his citizenship. If, however, he is not an alien enemy he is not entitled to claim exemption from military service. He has taken out his first papers. All subjects of Germany or Austria-Hungary are to be classified as alien enemies. Subjects of Bulgaria and Turkey are not to be classified.

"Supporting affidavits are required where a claim for exemption or deferred classification is made under Series V, Series VII, Series X, Series XI, Series XII. The requirement that supporting affidavits must be filed out and the oath administered by any member of the Legal Advisory Board. Such a registrant may also be advised that when he returns the questionnaire to his local board he may apply for transfer elsewhere, and that his local board may grant such a transfer, sending the questionnaire to another local board for the classification."

Members of Legal Advisory Boards may administer any oaths required in connection with the questionnaire even though the registrant is not listed in the county for which the legal board is appointed. Members of Legal Advisory Boards are being called upon to advise registrants who are at a distance from the board where they registered. This advice should be given and the questionnaire may be filled out and the oath administered by any member of a Legal Advisory Board. Such a registrant may also be advised that when he returns the questionnaire to his local board he may apply for transfer elsewhere, and that his local board may grant such a transfer, sending the questionnaire to another local board for the classification."

One hundred and fifteen questionnaires will be mailed tomorrow afternoon to the following registrants: Siegel, Harry T. Janesville; Babcock, Arthur J. Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl with brown hair, blue eyes, a straight nose and very good complexion. My upper lip is a good cupid's bow but the lower one is thick. Can you tell me how to remedy this?

(2) Do you think it is all right for young girls to write to soldiers that they do not know? I got the names from friends and these are boys who have no parents or relatives to write to them.

(3) What shall I do to make a boy stop wanting to kiss me every time he is with me? He always asks first and I say no, but I can't help it. I am a girl, give him a kiss, give him a kiss, and he does.

If anyway, I hate it because it shows disrespect. For a while I have been having anything to do with him, but I can't keep that up because I really like him and have taken him in hand in the first place to make a better young man of him. He stopped smoking and curbed his language and took an interest in his school work, but when I paid no attention to him about a month he went back to his old habits and got some awful grades in school.

(1) Practically the only thing that will make your lower lip appear thin is for you to be holding it tightly against your teeth. After you have done this for a while—when you think of it—you will find that your lips will naturally stay in that position and of course will look thinner.

(2) Yes, under the circumstances it is all right. Be very careful of what you write, though. Do not write love letters or say anything to show that the boys are missed back home, but instead encourage them and show them that the country is backing them to the limit.

(3) You have either to talk to him in such a way that he will know you mean what you say, or else you will have to stop going with him. He may be of the opinion that you are going with him more than with other boys, but you must show him that you are too young to be in love and therefore must not be too affectionate. The fact that this boy went back to his bad habits shows that he was not permanently cured of them and that your influence was only temporary. He has returned because he is lonely and please you. When he sees that it is wrong for him to continue his bad habits he will then have to have the strength to stop permanently. You can help him to do this, but not by sympathy or affection, as much as by severity and real desire.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have very long eyelashes. At the end of the eyelashes I curl up and do not show the prettiness of them.

(1) Could you suggest something that could put on them so that they would be straight to show the prettiness of them?

(2) At what age should a girl go with a boy steady?

(3) What furs are more popular this season?

(1) Anything you put on your eyelashes will make them look artificial and will spoil your beauty.

(2) About furs, there are many popular this year: seal, muskrat, raccoon and fox.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it all right for a girl to speak to a boy on the street without being introduced? He always lifts his hat when he meets me and he is a nice boy. Please tell me if I should speak to him first or wait until he does.

SCHOOL GIRL.

You mustn't speak to him until you have been introduced. After the introduction, it is the girl who should speak first.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Hoyt was answer in this paper all questions on matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper. If a personal answer is desired enclose a two-cent stamp.)

Wedding invitations are issued in the name of the bride's parents, or if the mother is a widow they are sent in her name alone. If the bride is an orphan they are sent in the name of her brother or nearest male relative. If the brother or male relative is married his wife's name is added.

MRS. WEST: A tuxedo, or dinner coat, as it is more properly called, should be worn at informal dinners attended only by men, or at home in the evening where there are no guests. Unfortunately gentlemen have acquired the habit of wearing dinner coats on many occasions when they are not correct attire. When a man appears in public with ladies who are in evening dress, he should wear full evening dress. A lady should wear her gloves in a public dining room, whether she is in evening dress or not, and should remove them only after seated at the table. There is usually a check room just outside the dining room door, where her wraps may be left.

HELEN: You may accept the escort of other young men while your fiancé is away, if you do not do it, you will have to find a way to allow any one gentleman to pay you many attentions. Remember that your sweetheart has the same right along this line that you have, and you will find that you would not be willing to have him do.

crisel sum. She didn't know where else to go, and hadn't the money to make experiments in moving.

Well, dear, the first thing I did was tell her about a little dressmaker. I knew she had a sewing machine and I thought something out of nothing. The second thing was to get her a room in the apartment of a Russian couple, friends of Paul, who were to be in the city for a short time. I called on the Correggio School of Languages and arranged for her to call and see about a teaching job. I went home and told her about it. She said she would try it. I ever felt like a cross between a fairy godmother and a good businesswoman. Write quick whether you think I'm a fool.

Household Hints

SUBSTITUTES FOR HOLIDAY CANDY.

These sweets are much more wholesome and will be just as much enjoyed. One-half pound raisins, one-half pound dates, one-half pound figs, one-half pound peanut butter.

Clean dates and figs well, mix with the peanut butter and form into balls. Shape into long rolls and let stand in a cool place. Cut in small pieces with sharp knife and wrap in waxed paper.

Hunky Dory—Two cups popped corn, one cup shelled nuts, one-fourth pound sweet chocolate.

Melt chocolate, add one tablespoon thick cream, stir in the corn and nuts, and mix well, placing on waxed paper to dry.

Tutti Fruit—One-half pound candied cherries, one-half pound dates, one-half pound figs, one-fourth pound raisins, one cup shelled nuts. Mix all ingredients well and run through food chopper. Turn onto a board dredged with confectioner's sugar, pat down to one-fourth inch, then cut into squares and dredge each with powdered sugar.

Stuffed Dates and Prunes—Cut dates just enough to remove the seeds and fill with a mixture of raisins, marshmallows, candied cherry or piece of candied pineapple. Roll in sugar. The prunes should be the largest you can get. Soak over night in cold water and treat same as dates. Figs may be split and filled with chopped nuts.

WHEAT-SAVERS

Baking Powder, Buckwheat Cakes (for family of six) Use two like cups cold water, one pint sweet milk, one tablespoon salt, two tablespoons sugar three teaspoons baking powder, enough buckwheat flour (not self-rising) to make a stiff dough. Bake in greased buttermilk. These are fine. If any batter is left in crock pour one quart water over it and when you want to make again pour water off and make as in the beginning. It keeps the batter sweet for a week or two.

Oatmeal Piecrust—Scald two parts of fine oatmeal with one part of hot water, mix well and roll into a thin layer very quickly, fruit which requires much cooking must be cooked first before making the pies. This crust is very tender, possessing all the desirable qualities of shortened crust without their injurious effects.

A Simple Dessert for Wheatless Day—From a piece of left-over corn bread, cut three by four inch and one inch thick, as a foundation. Use a little over a pint of milk. Soak the cake in a part of the milk for an hour, then beat in well a cup sugar, one-half cup raisins, two and one-half cups flour, three cups rolled oats, cup of nuts if desired.

Drop from spoon. Bake in moderate oven.

Johnnycake Without Eggs—Two cups sour milk, one level teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon baking powder, two cups flour, one tablespoon sugar or corn syrup, cornmeal with one-half cup wheat flour to make about like pancake batter. Bake in cake tins. This is very good for breakfast, as it bakes quick.

The Daily Novelette

THE S. P. C. G. O. I. F.

Five heroic speckles had Mrs. Ryzen. Fall spent in buying, sewing, planning and wrapping Christmas presents, and now at last she was about to have her reward. With an expectant smile she sat down before the great mound of packages and began to open them.

"Of course I know it's more blessed to give than to receive," she thought, but receiving is such a comfort.

And she opened a long, oblong package tied with infant purple ribbon. It contained a half a dozen frayed whisk brooms from Mrs. Spore, to whom Mrs. Ryzen-Fall had sent a silver dollar tub of candied watermelons.

"Mercy!" said Mrs. Ryzen-Fall.

And she opened a circular package tied with nineteen yards of silver string. It contained an empty cardboard box labeled, "Full shoes," from Mrs. Ryzen-Fall. Mrs. Ryzen-Fall had sent a fourteen dollar edition of Skower Edges' "How to Make Your Back Alley Beautiful."

"Pshaw!" said Mrs. Ryzen-Fall.

THE SOURCE OF IRON IN THE BLOOD.

Contrary to the popular idea, one may have too much iron in the blood. Through the veins, one may be a "red-blooded man," and still be a sickly, weak or physically incompetent individual.

When doctors prescribe iron—we mean when they prescribe it intelligently to meet a definite purpose—they know full well that the iron in the medicine will not be assimilated by the body.

The medicinal forms of iron, whether of inorganic (mineral) or organic (animal or vegetable) origin, must all undergo certain chemical changes before they can be absorbed into the blood. The medicinal iron must be decomposed and converted into the precise combination the body can utilize. Therefore it is of little importance that iron in given as medicine. Dr. Jacoby demonstrated years ago that even when iron is injected directly into the veins a considerable part of it was at once eliminated from the system, and the remainder deposited in the liver, spleen and other tissues, to be slowly eliminated from the body.

Given internally as medicine, iron stimulates or irritates the digestive organs, and also stimulates or irritates certain blood-producing organs, such as the spleen, and the marrow of bones.

If your blood lacks iron, you should look to your food to supply iron. Anemia is a symptom always, and not a distinct disease. In order to correct anemia, you must learn what is producing it in your particular case, and there are a great many different causes. When the cause has been found it must be removed. If the blood is poor, it will soon regain normal strength, provided your food is reasonably varied and not too much restricted to easily digested and artificially denatured articles. Food is the available iron for the body are the green garden vegetables, fresh fruits, whole cereals, fresh meats, eggs, raw milk. The skins of potatoes (baked) contain much available iron.

When the number of red corpuscles is reduced in anemia other remedies than iron give better results. Iron is more effective for the increase of the hemoglobin or coloring matter of the red corpuscles, when that has been reduced by some disease, by hemorrhages, by various poisons, by foul air, etc. Only by making an examination of a drop of two of blood can the doctor determine whether the red corpuscles or the hemoglobin is the deficient factor. It is impossible to say with certainty whether an individual is really anemic merely by looking at the skin, the lips or the mucous membranes, for pallor and good color are very deceiving. An individual with perfect blood may look pale, one with marked anemia may have a perfect complexion.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Strengthening Bow Legs.

I am fourteen years old and how-legged. How can I have my legs strengthened? Would it cost much? (M. S.)

Answer—If the bowing is so great as to amount to a deformity, the bones may be fractured and reset in better position. Provided the bowing is in the bones. Sometimes the bow is mostly at the knee joint and a joint operation is required. The expense could be learned from the orthopedic surgeon.

I have a baby 14 months old and have been feeding him on barley water and cow's milk. He does not seem to thrive—he weighed 20 pounds four months ago and still weighs the same. (Mrs. E. S.)

Answer—When a baby is eight months old the following articles should generally be added to the milk diet: A teaspoonful or two a day of fresh vegetables of any kind, well cooked and strained through a sieve. Once a day some fresh beef, mutton or chicken broth, with baked potato after the tenth month. Some fresh fruit, juice apart from milk feedings, once a day, or some well stewed fruit pulp. After the tenth month straight pure milk should be given as the chief part of the diet, and instead of barley water feed well cooked cereals.

Pink Eye.

Kindly explain the cause of the trouble commonly known as "pink eye." It is due to weather conditions or is it due to some disease? (E. R.)

Answer—It is an acute conjunctivitis (inflammation of the lining of the lids and covering of eyeball) caused by a germ known as the Koch-Weeks bacillus and spread from one person to another through personal contact.

Head's Fluff—The Perfect Shampoo—Treats as it Cleans.

Two much or not enough oil is often the cause of scalp and hair troubles. A shampoo with oil and soap removes all the natural oil from the hair. This is shortly followed by an excess of oil as a reaction.

Head's Fluff is a shampoo made of the finest vegetable oils by a wonderful scientific process. These oils feed the hair roots during the shampoo and assist in preventing dandruff which ordinarily follows.

Head's Fluff will aid in preserving the silky tress of the hair of men and women in better condition.

I have a baby 14 months old and have been feeding him on barley water and cow's milk. He does not seem to thrive—he weighed 20 pounds four months ago and still weighs the same. (Mrs. E. S.)

Answer—When a baby is eight months old the following articles should generally be added to the milk diet: A teaspoonful or two a day of fresh vegetables of any kind, well cooked and strained through a sieve. Once a day some fresh beef, mutton or chicken broth, with baked potato after the tenth month. Some fresh fruit, juice apart from milk feedings, once a day, or some well stewed fruit pulp. After the tenth month straight pure milk should be given as the chief part of the diet, and instead of barley water feed well cooked cereals.

Pink Eye.

Kindly explain the cause of the trouble commonly known as "pink eye." It is due to weather conditions or is it due to some disease? (E. R.)

Answer—It is an acute conjunctivitis (inflammation of the lining of the lids and covering of eyeball) caused by a germ known as the Koch-Weeks bacillus and spread from one person to another through personal contact.

FASHION SUCCEEDS IN OVERCOMING THE OLD SUPERSTITIONS

By Margaret Mason.

Superstitious Susie is a creature of the past. Now sensible Susanna doesn't even look at it.

When she walks beneath a ladder, opals cause her no alarm. And she even breaks a mirror with no thought of future harm.

New York, Dec. 28.—Fashion certainly is all powerful since it can overcome superstition and down it without a struggle.

Poor but sensible relations who couldn't afford to be superstitious have revealed for years in opal rings, scarf-pinch brooches, earrings and even necklaces cast off shudderingly by temperamental and hysterical daughters and sons of the rich who were that sure opals brought bad luck, fire calamity and everything dreadful and devastating. But poor relations will reveal no longer.

Just now Madame La Mode is pleased to cast anything but black glances on black opals and in consequence their erstwhile supposedly evil blight is quite ignored by fickle and fashionable females and the aching puffs of the black opals acclimate on their own like thrushes (some of them are more like pouter pigeons) on their heaving and oft times ample bosoms, on their lips and finger digits and gleam from the throat like a recent confession. Smugly content in the consciousness that they are smartly jeweled, they wear the opals without a shudder and as yet the list of casualties attendant upon such a desperate act has been slight.

Just why the blight of superstition should ever have rested on the gorgeous feathers of the peacock, that favored flower of June and long ago, is a mystery. It is a deep dark peacock blue mystery. This season sees the ban on peacock feathers lifted, however, as the fan of peacock feathers is unfurled. These fetching feathers are either mounted on jeweled and hand carved ivory handles or of the open and shut variety with tortoise shell or ivory sticks are the very some of feather fan fashions for the hair.

Peacock feathers also wave triumphantly from jewel evening hair bandeaus or from the smart street turbans of metallic brocade, and bits of the entire bird gleam in wicked irreverence from the fascinating surfaces of the ubiquitous beaded bags.

In the face of such fickle shifting from superstition at fashion's call, it would be foolish to still cling to other superstitions equally as innoxious. Why not banish the whole musty, medieval lot since Madame La Mode has bravely banished the black opal? Most of the up-to-date maids and matrons have indeed adopted this logic for their own and ladders are now passed under dauntlessly by opaled and peacocky ladies. They turn back home to get something they have forgotten and leave again by the same door. They begin a new piece of knitting on Friday or Saturday with all quality and even start journeying on a fateful Friday. The thirteenth of the month has become a prime favorite as a wedding or an entertaining date, and milady now cracks her heels on the floor with as little compunction as she does a masculine heart.

The YUKON TRAIL

A Tale of the North

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright by William MacLeod Raine)

"Good enough!" She shrugged her shoulders. "What man is good enough for a girl like you? If you come to that? There are other things besides sugar and goodness. Any man who is strong can make himself good enough for the woman he loves."

"Generally speaking, yes. But Colby Macdonald is different."

"Thank heaven he is," she retorted impatiently. "Then added after a moment: 'He isn't a Sunday-school superintendent if that's what you mean.'"

"That isn't what I mean at all. But there's such a thing as a difference between right and wrong, isn't there?"

"Oh, yes. For instance, Mr. Macdonald is right about the need of developing Alaska and the way to do it, and you are wrong."

"I'm not talking about essential right and wrong. Miss O'Neill is idealizing Macdonald. I don't suppose you've told her, for instance, that he made his first money in the North running a dance hall."

"No, I haven't told her any such thing, because it isn't true," she replied scornfully. "He owned an opera house and brought in a company of players. I dare say they danced. That's very different, as you'd know if you didn't have astigmatism of the mind."

"Not the way the story was told me. But let that pass. Does she know that Macdonald lost her father out of one of the best claims on Bonanza and was indirectly responsible for his death?"

"What's the use of talking nonsense, Gordon. You know you can't prove that. His friend told him sharply."

"I think I can—if it is necessary."

Diane looked across at him with an impatient little tilt of the chin. "I don't think I like you as well as I used to."

"Sneer, because I'd like you just as well, Diane. If you would stop trying to manage your cousin into a marriage that will spoil her life," he answered gravely. "The happiness of Miss O'Neill is of very great importance to me."

"Do you mean—?" Wide-eyed, she looked her question straight at him.

"That's just what I mean, Diane."

She stared for a minute in silence. It had occurred to Diane before that perhaps Gordon might be in love with Sheba, but she had put the thought from her because she did not want to denote it.

"That's different, Gordon. It explains—and in a way excuses—your coming here and trying to bully me. She stopped her work to flash a question at him. "Don't you think that maybe it's only a fancy of yours? I remember you used—"

He shook his head. "No chance, Diane. I'm hard hit. She's the only girl I ever met that suited me. Everything she does is right. Every move she makes is wonderful."

The eyes with which she looked at him were softer, as those of women are wont to be for the true romance. "You poor boy," she murmured, and let her hand for a moment rest on his. "Meaning that I love?" he asked quickly.

"I think you do. I'm not sure."

Elliot leaned forward impulsively. "Be a good sport, Diane. Let me have my chance, too. Why do you make it easy for Macdonald and hard for me? Isn't it because the glamor of his millions blinds you?"

"He's a big, splendid man, but I don't like him any the less because he has the power to make life easy and comfortable for Sheba," she defended sturdily.

"Yet you turned down Arthur West, the best catch in your set, to marry Petey, who was the worst," he reminded her. "Have you ever been sorry for it?"

She recoiled to the previous question. "Sheba knows more about Mr. Macdonald than you think. And about how he got her father's claim, for instance—she has heard all that."

"You told her?"

"No. Colby Macdonald told her. He said he practically robbed her father, and he gave her a check for nearly two hundred thousand to cover the cleanup from the claim and interest."

"Bully for him." On the heel of this he flung a question at her. "Did Macdonald ask her to marry him the night of the dinner?"

A flash of whitened amusement lit her dainty face. "You'd better ask him that. Here he comes now."

They were coming down the walk together, Macdonald and Sheba. The young woman was absorbed in his talk, and she did not know that her cousin and Elliot were on the porch until she was close upon them. But at sight of the young man her eyes became warm and kind.

"I'm sorry I was out yesterday when you called," she told him.

"And you were out again today. My luck isn't very good, is it?"

He laughed pleasantly, but his heart was bitter. He believed Macdonald had won.

"We've had such a good walk," Sheba went on quickly. "I wish you could have heard Mr. Macdonald telling me how he had a chance to save a small Eskimo tribe during a hard winter. He carried food five hundred miles to them. It was a thrilling experience."

"Mr. Macdonald has had a lot of very interesting experiences. You must get him to tell you about all of them," answered Gordon quietly.

The eyes of the two men met. The steel-gray ones of the older man answered the challenge of his rival with a long, steady look. There was in it winter before us for stories.

The muscles in the lean jaws of Gordon Elliot stood out like steel ropes. He turned to Sheba. "Am I to congratulate Mr. Macdonald?"

The color in her cheeks grew warmer, but her shy glance met his fairly. "I think it is I that am to be congratulated, Mr. Elliot."

Diane took her cousin in her arms. "My dear, I wish you all the happiness in the world," she said softly.

The Irish girl fled into the house as soon as she could, but not before making an announcement.

"We're to be married soon, very quietly. If you are still at Kuslak we want you to be one of the few friends present, Mr. Elliot."

Macdonald backed her invitation with a cool, cynical smile. "Miss O'Neill speaks for us both, of course, Elliot."

The defeated man bowed. "Thanks very much. The chances are that I'll be through my business before then."

As soon as his fiancée had gone into the house, the Scotsman left. Gordon sat down in a porch chair and stared straight in front of him. The suddenness of the news had brought his world tumbling about his ears. He felt that such a marriage would be an outrage against Sheba's innocence.

Though she was sorry for him, Diane did not think it best to say so yet.

Presently he spoke thickly. "I suppose you have heard that he was a squaw man."

"That's ridiculous. Don't be absurd, Gordon."

"It's the truth. I've seen the woman. She was pointed out to me."

"By old Gideon Holt, likely," she flighed.

"One could get evidence and show it to Miss O'Neill," he said aloud, to himself rather than to her.

Diane put her point of view before him with heated candor. "You couldn't. Nobody but a cad would rake up old scandals about the man who has healed him fairly for a woman's love."

"You beg the question. Has he won fairly?"

"Of course he has. Be a good sport, Gordon. Don't kick on the umpire's decision. Play the game."

"That's all very well. But what about her? Am I to sit quiet while she is sacrificed to a code of honor that seems to me rooted in dishonor?"

"She is not being sacrificed. I'm her cousin. I'm very fond of her. And I'd trust her with Colby Macdonald."

"Play fair, Diane. Tell her the truth about this Indian woman and let your cousin decide for herself. You can't do less, can you?"

Mrs. Paget was distinctly annoyed. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Gordon Elliot. You take all the gossip of a crack-brained old idiot for gospel truth just because you want to believe the worst about Mr. Macdonald. Colby Macdonald is too big and too aggressive not to have made hundreds of enemies. His life has been threatened dozens of times. But he pays no attention to it—goes right on building up this country. Yet you'd think he had a cloven hoof to hear some people talk. I've no patience with them."

"The woman's name is Meteteese," Gordon said in an even voice, just as if he were answering a question. "She is young and good-looking for an Indian. Her boy is four or five years old. Colman, they call him, and he looks just like Macdonald."

"People are always tracing resemblances. There's nothing to that. But suppose his life was irregular—years ago. This isn't Boston. It used to be the fringe of civilization. Men did as they pleased in the early days."

"This wasn't in the early days. It was five years ago, when Macdonald was examining the Kamathish coal field. I'm told he sends a check down the river once a month for the woman."

"All the more credit to him if he does." Diane rose and looked stormily down at her friend. "You're about as broad as a clam, Gordon. Can't you see that even if it's true, all that is done with? It is a part of his past—and it's finished—trodden underfoot. It hasn't a thing to do with Sheba."

"I don't agree with you. A man can't cut loose entirely from his past. It is a part of him—and Macdonald's past isn't good enough for Sheba O'Neill."

Diane tapped her little foot impatiently on the floor. "Do you know many men whose pasts are good enough for their wives? Colby Macdonald is good enough for any woman alive if he loves her enough."

"You don't know him."

"I know him far better than you do. He is the biggest man I know, and now that he is in love with a good woman he'll rise to his chance."

"She ought to be told the truth about Meteteese and her boy," he insisted doggedly.

Mrs. Paget lost her temper completely. "Does the government pay you to mind other people's business, Gordon?" she snapped.

"I wouldn't be working for the government then, but for Sheba O'Neill."

"And for Gordon Elliot. You'd be doing underhand work for him too. Don't forget that. You can't do it. You're not that kind of a man. It isn't in you to go muckraking in the past of the man Sheba is going to marry."

Elliot rose and looked across at the blue-ribbed mountains. His square jaw was set when he turned it back toward Diane.

"She isn't going to marry him if I can help it," he said quietly.

He walked out of the gate and down the walk toward his hotel.

A message was waiting for him there from his chief in Seattle. It called him down the river on business.

Dinner Stories

A large realty company has weekly meetings of employees to discuss the affairs of the firm. The call not only includes office men, but also the janitors of large apartments and business blocks controlled by the company. A few days ago one of the office men met old Uncle Jim, a dandy in the firm's office for many years.

"You want to get over to the meeting today, don't you, Jim?" the office man said. "We're going to have a talk on efficiency."

"Aw, go 'long with you," Uncle Jim replied indignantly. "You all knows I ain't been fishing in twenty years."

The remarkable facility the Irish have developed of getting themselves appointed to all the highest and best paid offices in connection with municipal affairs is happily illustrated in a new powder town in the east.

The place started with a few tin-roofed shanties. Three months later it was a busy center of population.

Of the people of the place there are a dozen hotels, schools, churches, a fire station and so forth.

"So it's going on well?" a native was asked upon his visit to New York.

"I guess it's just booming," was the reply. "It's got the best brains from every land under the sun; that's why it's a time enjoyer. By all, Greeks, Russians, French, Jews, Chinese, Japanese and Italians."

"No Irish?"

"No."

"What?"

"Waal, now I come to think of it, there are two Irishmen there. One's mayor and the other's chief of police."

PORTER

Porter, Dec. 26.—Messrs. S. Dooley and George Breesee of Janesville, were at Eagle Creamery on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Marsch of Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ford of Janesville, were entertained at the home of T. Ford and family Christmas day.

The Help-A-Bit club met with Mrs. E. M. Nalan last Thursday afternoon. Delicious refreshments were served and a pleasant time enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. B. W. Towns, Thursday, January 10th. Mrs. Charles Hoague, Jr., and daughter, Melva, are spending a few weeks with relatives in Lancaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Cox of Little Prairie, spent a few days at the J. W. Bates home the first of the week.

Edward Casey of Rubicon, is spending a couple weeks at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Casey.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Nalan motored to Stoughton Thursday afternoon.

Karl Becker, who is employed in Milwaukee, spent Xmas with his parents here.

Miss Marie Fox is spending her Christmas vacation with her parents. Friends of Mrs. Arthur Green will be pleased to hear she returned home from the Joe McElwain rate Christmas.

On Monday, much improved from her recent operation.

Mr. and Mrs. James Barrett and family spent Christmas at the Collins home in Evansville.

Miss Rosella and Hazel Casey of Madison, were visitors at the parental home the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford and children spent Christmas at the Moore home in Stebbinsville.

REVIEW.

Never was a great national enterprise undertaken under more discouraging conditions than the rebuilding of Jerusalem after the Babylonian captivity. The remnant left in Palestine were the mudsills and poor white trash of Syria. They were a dead weight on the weary corners.

Again, the latter had idealized the situation, dreaming of a glorious Mt. Zion where there was only a heap of ashes. In the midst of the gloom God gave his people a song, a Marseillaise, a Battle Hymn of the Republic.

History has no parallel to the caravan from Babylon laden with treasure, guarded by a thousand horsemen and singing a marching hymn of Zion. It can be accounted for only by the incidental statement:

"The Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus." The response of the Israelites was as surprising as the decree itself. There was a double stirring up, first of Cyrus and then of Israel.

It was a diamond point of history. The destiny of the world turned on it. Had it not occurred, Israel would have been absorbed, Hebrew scriptures and ritual would have perished and the ruling ideas of the Jewish faith would have faded from the minds of men.

In the great volume of praise that arose at the dedication of the second temple, a strange, weird, paradoxical sound was heard. It was the weeping of the elders who had seen the first temple. It was the weeping of the comparative plainness of the second temple. All the significant and costly furniture of Solomon's house was gone. What could the temple be without its ark? But they ought not to have been disappointed. On the contrary they ought to have recognized the plainness of the second house as an advanced step in the evolution of the spirit of worship. The paraphernalia of the old temple was for the kindergarten age which needed material and visible symbols.

In the splendid galaxy in arms and letters at the close of the fifth century B. C. there was a small cluster, Zerubbabel, Joshua, Ezra, Haggai and Zechariah. In this constellation, Ezra shines like a star of first magnitude. His journey to Jerusalem was a courageous adventure. He led a band of revivalists whose purpose was to infuse a new life in the decayed service of the temple at Jerusalem. They carried with them not merely the material requisites, the oil and spices for main-tenance but what was more important, the spirit of evangelism on the altar of their hearts.

History repeats itself. Benhadad had a covetous eye on Samaria. Commercial reason impelled him. He wanted a sea-port. He claimed indemnity. When it was cravenly promised he was tempted to go further even to spoliation. In that he overreached himself. Even had he retrieved the disaster of his defeat. But the king was drunk. Some men on the eve of financial, political or domestic peril, just when clear minds are demanded "drink themselves drunk" and the situation becomes irretrievable. Drinking makes thinking impossible. Thinking should make drinking impossible.

When Nehemiah heard of the peril of Jerusalem he wept. But he did better than that. He prayed. His story is a fine commentary on prayer, its utility and the qualities which make it successful.

The audacity of Nehemiah's requisitions on Artaxerxes is astonishing until one considers that he had already prevailed with a greater king than Artaxerxes.

The One-hundred and third Psalm would make a fine tract for our bad times. It portrays the infinite kindness of the Infinite Father of all men. It makes little difference who wrote it, when, where or under what circumstances. It is all men's psalm, a piece of universal literature, fitting into all languages, lands, ages. It is the utterance of a soul that is saved, who knows he is saved and who has saved him, one who has the assurance of the perpetuation of his saved estate. The hymn faces non-sobriety only. It looks God-ward as man-ward. It is an exalted and perfect portrait of the deity. The whole psalm clusters around five words, forgiveness, health, redemption, crown and satisfaction.

Nehemiah's diary modestly says: "I came to Jerusalem." On arrival he said nothing of his purpose or the royal letters in his pocket. The first three days he did nothing but observe, record, think. Then he called a conference of the leaders. He did not say: "I have come to put this city in a defensible condition," but "Ye see this distress." The natural reply to such diplomatic leadership was "Let us rise up and build!" In spite of unfavorable circumstances, laborers few and untrained, enemies many and crafty, in the short space of fifty-two days the work was done. What joy to know after its long exposure, the House of God was safe.

In a history full of the spectacular few scenes surpass that of Ezra on his pulpit of wood holding aloft the yellow scroll of the law in sight of vast concourse of the people in the wide plaza of Jerusalem. Good reading was matched by equally good hearing that day.

Ezra read distinctly, and gave the sense and caused the people to understand. The people of their part were attentive, rapt, devout sympathetic.

The whole nation had lately gone down to Nehemiah's mourners' bench, professing they would never go back to their old life of disobedience to God. Yet in the shortest space they were all backslidden. Neglect of the Sabbath and attendance upon the temple was the beginning of it. Passive indifference soon changed to active profanation. They built an apartment for the old heathen, Tobiah, in the temple and turned to traffic and manual labor on the Lord's day.

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE. Charles Wesley was at Land's End when he composed the solemn hymn "Lo on a narrow neck of land." New Year's day is like that. Behind one lies the "unbounded sea" of the past, before one that of the future. It is unwise to use New Year's day just like the common day of the calendar. It commands a Land's End view, thrilling, inspiring, cautionary. From this vantage of vantage the swift passing of time can be noted as nowhere else.

PORT ATKINSON. Port Atkinson, Dec. 27.—This city is going over the top with more than double its quota for the Red Cross. The population of the city is 4,000, and so far the Red Cross membership amounts to almost 3,500. Every business house, every factory, all classes of the high school, including the seventh and eighth grades, are 100%. On many streets there is a Red Cross 100% flag in every house. The campaign, under the management of D. Q. Grabbit, was so planned that the business men's organization canvassed the business district, each factory made its own canvas, following short addresses by campaign speakers, ward captains organized and worked each ward.

The farmers are responding as they have not to any previous patriotic drive. Not a city man has gone out into the country, but each town has been organized with its own workers, and many farmers have given largely of their time making a complete house to house canvass. The Town of Koshkong has so far reported 625, the Town of Oakland over 500, Hebron over 250, Palmyra over 650.

The loyalty and enthusiasm in the country is fully equal to that of the city, and the present campaign has definitely proven that farmers may be best approached by farmers.

The total membership of the Port Atkinson chapter is about 6,000, and will go well over that figure, fifty per cent of the population of the chapter's jurisdiction.

NORTH CENTER. North Center, Dec. 27.—Tobacco striding is the work here at present. James Conway made a business trip to Rockdale one day the past week. William Barrett and sisters, Josephine and Catherine, spent Sunday evening at L. Barrett's.

Mrs. Ed. Fox and daughter, Marie, spent a few hours Wednesday afternoon with relatives here.

Mrs. Lawrence Barrett and son, James, spent a few days at her brother's home in Porter and attended the Christmas program and box social at the school taught by Miss Anna Ford, enjoying it very much.

The following guests were entertained at the Mike Reilly home on Christmas day: William Ford and family; James Reilly and family; Mrs. Brennan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Griffith of Janesville, and Wilfred Griffith of Baraboo, Wis.

Thomas Cassidy and family spent Christmas eve with Mrs. O'Neill of Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cassidy entertained Mrs. O'Neill and the Misses Ella and Minnie O'Neill on Christmas day.

Walter Churchill of Beloit, is spending some time with friends.

Barbans in almost every line are to be found daily in the classified columns.

"What'll we have to drink?" That's the question when company is coming over to spend the evening—or for luncheon—and the "stumper" too, when you drop into a restaurant or stop at soda fountain.

GUND'S BEVERAGE NON-INTOXICATING

answers it for everyone. Answers it completely—and satisfactorily. Make up your mind now—that you can't make a mistake in serving others with GUND'S or having it served to you. It proves a drink pleasure to everyone. It's new, it's out-of-the-ordinary. It is the greatest achievement ever attained in the production of a soft drink. Pure. Thoroughly wholesome. A delightful taste without an objectionable "trait." Richly flavored with a soft, yet snappy zestfulness that is pleasing to all.

Order a case now—for table use—be sure of satisfying every member of the home circle—and to make your "at home" evenings and luncheons more "entertaining."

To be had wherever soft drinks are sold—and that's everywhere. Remember the name—you'll never forget the flavor.

Tommies Arrange Rather Elaborate Little Surprise Party For Boche Scouting Patrol

By MAJOR DONALD M. McRAE.

CHAPTER IX.

Without going into tiresome technical details, I should like in this article to give the reader some idea of the large phases of war on the French front and in particular to reveal to him exactly what will be expected of the great divisions of artillery and infantry which are training so intensively in the United States and in France.

Maj. D. McRae.

In the present war, practically everything depends on the manner in which the artillery and the infantry co-operate. This co-operation has become an exact science. On both sides it has been developed to the degree where there can be no offensive progress and no defensive stability unless these two great fighting branches work in accord.

The American army is already showing splendid spirit of co-operation and I am sure the ways of practice and training it will come easily.

I lay great stress on this phase of fighting because the lack of co-operation was a serious handicap to the British in the early days of the war. I do not think I am going out of confidential bounds in saying that for fully a year and a half there was not adequate co-operation between the British artillery and infantry and what was worse, there was much antagonism.

This was due to a number of causes. In the first place, neither side knew much about the other and had no knowledge of the troubles and limitations that controlled the action of the other. At one time it was practically impossible for the infantry to learn anything about the covering artillery or to visit the artillery observation points on the front. Another cause was the shortage of shells. The infantry blamed the artillery for this and the artillery was too touchy to take the trouble to explain.

WISE OFFICER STARTS PROMOTING FELLOWSHIP

Then came the wise officer who started something. Suddenly conditions began to improve. Personal acquaintance between the two branches began to develop. The two were invited to mess with the artillery and vice versa; there were mixed entertainments, and ultimately each branch began to realize that the other was doing his best. Black words gave way to words of congratulation over a particularly good piece of work and information was freely exchanged. Now, each battalion of infantry has an artillery division officer in front line trenches. He doesn't loaf around headquarters, but is the shadow of the front line intelligence officer. These two men work hand in hand for the discomfort of the enemy and increased safety of our own troops. They compare maps and at once correct any variations. They check up the names and locations of front line trench, bags, posts, craters, gaps, etc., and thus keep artillery and infantry supplied with identical information. When the battalion observers locate an enemy battery, trench mortar or machine gun, the information is given to the artillery at once and the artillery passes back word of what they have been able to do about it.

... a man with a signal lamp invisible to the enemy.

PILE OF MINCE SLAG MAKES WATCH TOWER

Opposite the city of Lens there is a great pile of slag from one of the iron mines called the Double Crassier. It is about two hundred feet high and twelve hundred yards long with a narrow top eight yards wide. The sides are extremely steep. One end of this crassier is at our front lines and from there it runs across No Man's Land to quite a distance behind the enemy front line. We had dug a sap running up the end in front of our position and a narrow trench along the top so that the post on the top was about on a line with the German front line away below in No Man's Land.

The Germans also had a sap on top running to within ten yards of the front of our sap. Being so close we established a sort of status quo. From this wonderful watch tower all the surrounding country could be seen. On the right we could see Vimy Ridge and on the left as far as Loos.

Along the adjoining front there had been a number of successful raids against the Germans and they were exceedingly jumpy. As a result they kept machine guns sweeping over the front line every night. These guns did little damage, but were an awful nuisance. Of course, they interfered somewhat with the Canadian working parties, but we developed no intention to alter the situation until the Hun moved some heavy trench mortars very close to the foot of the crassier and began to lob the huge Minnewaterers over the top of the crassier into the trenches of the battalions on the north.

Then while up on the top of the crassier one night an officer observed the relief of a German listening post crawling out in the snow directly beneath the top of the crassier.

Now we thought it was time for a surprise party. Accordingly some artillery friends and an officer from the brigade of machine guns were taken to the top of the crassier to see what could be done. I may say incidentally that since they have become adequately supplied with ammunition, the British artillerymen find a great deal of joy in plugging at almost any target the infantry may find for them.

We first made a systematic effort to locate all the enemy emplacements and have these accurately registered in daylight from the crassier. To register these emplacements it was necessary to drop some light shells over so as to be able to check up on the return shots, but our art of this was done in such a way as to make it appear to be desultory firing. The brigade machine guns were then brought into action and the path taken by the relief to the listening post.

Next we rigged up a twig wire from the observation post, which we established on the top of the crassier along the top and registered and on the path where a man with a signal lamp had been located so as to be invisible to the enemy but where he could be seen variations. Our artillery observation tower on the outskirts of a town to the rear. In this tower was an artillery officer in direct communication

SUPREME COURT WILL ANNOUNCE DECISIONS

Justice Marshall Will Announce Decisions in Cases Involving Local Parties.

Decisions in three cases of vital interest to local people are expected to be handed down by Justice Marshall of the supreme court within a few days. The court will meet very soon so that the decisions may be rendered before Justice Marshall's term of office which expires January 8th.

These cases which will be decided and which involve local people are Woods executor etc., vs. Standard Accident Insurance Company, State vs. George C. Sutherland resp., and Mary K. Peters resp., vs. National Surety Company.

The case involving the late Dr. Edmund F. Woods was the first submergence case to come before the Wisconsin supreme court. Early in the war Dr. Woods went to Europe to do Red Cross work and when returning home on the Arable, the boat was torpedoed August 18, 1916. The Standard Accident Insurance Company refused to pay their policy on the grounds that claimants are not paid when the individual insured comes to his death while hunting or if killed by explosives. They contend that Dr. Woods came to his death as the result of an explosion and therefore the policy is not valid.

Final action to restrain George Sutherland and others from erecting buildings on the Rock River at Janesville was navigable that the building of piers was erected without legislative authority in the bed of the stream, but that these buildings did not constitute a nuisance. The lower court entered judgment dismissing the complaint and the state appealed.

The action of Mary K. Peters respectively vs. National Surety Company was started by John W. Peters and the Hayes Brothers Company to recover damages for breach of contract. Death of Peters and the termination of the corporate existence of the company resulted in making Mrs. Peters the plaintiff. The action involves the carrying out of contracts for the construction of buildings at Belle Fourche, South Dakota. Judge Grimm ruled in favor of the plaintiffs for $87,325 and the surety company appealed.

THREE PIGS RAISED BY PREACHER'S WIFE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Janesville, Wis., Dec. 28.—A patriotic Wisconsin pastor anxious to do his bit in recruiting Uncle Sam's food supplies, has made an excellent record feeding porkers largely on kitchen scraps.

The woman in the case was Mrs. Anna R. Corr of this place, who one day astonished her preacher husband by bringing home three small Chester white pigs, vowing she was a member of the produce-your-own-pork club from that day on.

The pigs were placed in a small grass lot back of the house and under her careful supervision began their pork making careers. Their daily menu consisted of table scraps, a limited supply of ground feed and some waste from a local condorsery. At the close of the eight months feeding period the dressed carcasses weighed 291, 294, and 305 pounds respectively. The heaviest of the trio was sold for twenty-one cents, netting $64.05. The entire cash outlay for raising all three pigs, the Corrs had but a modest six hundred pounds of pork to supply bacon, hams and sausages for the family table.

That kitchen wastes, plus regular feeding to protect neighbors from the hungry squeals of the pigs, is sufficient to make pork raising profitable is the big lesson, which stockmen see in this incident.

Evansville News

Evansville, Dec. 28.—Last evening at half after eight o'clock, at the country home of the bride's parents, the words were spoken that united as husband and wife, Miss Marjorie Jane Spencer and John Porter. Just preceding the ceremony, Miss Esther Franklin sang, "O Promise Me," and as she finished, Miss Josephine Ames, at the piano, began the strains of the wedding march. From the rooms above came the bridal party. The bride, on the arm of her father, met the groom before a bower of green smilax and holly, enclosed between two pedestals. Here, beneath the huge bell, the beautiful ring wedding service was read by the Rev. G. R. Lawrence.

The bride wore a gown of white georgette crepe, with a long wedding veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Maude Porter, sister of the groom, was gowned in white net over pink silk, and carried pink roses. The groom and his attendant, Dean Spencer, brother of the bride, wore the conventional black.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Spencer, and has grown to womanhood here, where she has a host of friends, both young and old. She is a graduate of the Evansville High School, and for the past few years, has been teaching. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porter, and is a young man with a host of friends, for he has grown to manhood here. He is also a graduate of the Evansville High School.

After the ceremony a two course luncheon was served to the twenty guests present by girl friends of the bride. During the serving, Miss Bernadine Gillman played several beautiful piano selections. Mr. and Mrs. Porter left for Sturgeon on a wedding trip, where they will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kenney, a sister of the bride. May their wedded life be bright and happy is the wish of their many friends.

Personals. Miss Grace Dunkirk of Union Grove, Wis., is the guest of Mrs. T. J. Estes at her home on South Madison. Miss Joyce, who have been visiting local relatives, left for their home in Stoughton Thursday morning. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Seales entertained on Christmas day the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Todd, Jr., Libertyville, Ill.; Edith Parrish, Lisle, Ill.; Mrs. H. C. Seales, Stoughton, Ill.; Mrs. Albert Gilley and son, Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Graves, Miss Joyce of Stoughton, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith and son, Marlow.

Richard Schlim of the Lewis Institute, Chicago, is spending his vacation at his home here. He has gone to South Wayne, Wis., for a week's visit.

Harry Powles of Kansasville, Wis., is a guest at the T. J. Estes home. Mr. Powles is one of the crew of the U. S. S. Philadelphia, which is undergoing repairs, and in consequence the men are allowed a furlough.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hanson and son have returned from Burlington and Beloit, where they have been visiting relatives and friends. A very beautiful cantata, entitled "Christmas," by Franz Abt, will be given by the Treble Clef choir at the Congregational church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The girls of the choir have been working very hard to make this a success and it promises to be very fine. The public is invited.

Joseph Paulson entertained his brothers, Francis and Paul Paulson of Gary, Ind., over Christmas.

Miss Estella Pearce is visiting friends in Oshkosh and Appleton during her vacation.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM WONDERFUL SUCCESS

Hanover, Dec. 27.—The Christmas program in the Brick church was attended by a large crowd and pronounced the best ever rendered by the Sunday school, one very excellent song was given. A beautiful rendition of "Silent Night," by the school, with Clara Jensen and Laura Borkenhagen giving an echo effect from behind the Christmas tree was specially pleasing. Perhaps the best number was the song, "O Star of David," introduced by Miss Emma Borkenhagen, then the flut chorus, and closing with a duet, Clara Jensen and Laura Borkenhagen carrying the soprano, supported in the alto by Blanche and Irene Schumann, Elva Jensen and Mable Bloedorn.

"The Junior Girls sang 'No Room,' and the Primary Girls very sweetly 'Twinkle, Little Star.' There were special gifts for all the scholars and each child present was remembered with a box of candy and nuts. The congregation presented the pastor, Mr. Felten, with a generous purse, and the Sunday school remembered the teachers with an ivory bust of Martin Luther.

There was also a program and tree at the White church, given before a crowded church. The special feature here was the singing of carols, accompanied by the Hanover glee club orchestra, under the direction of Rev. Dr. Tippke.

Ole Jensen and family entertained relatives over the holidays. Ed Kane and family, Wm. Schroeder Jr. and family, Mrs. Olsen and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Peters of Chicago took Christmas dinner at Aug. Kapkes.

Claude Gruenewaldt, Ed. Egan and Corbett visited relatives here Christmas day.
